The Tariff bill was then taken up. Mr. Plumb's amendment was rejected. subject for consideration being the Finance Committee's amendment to the paragraph imposing duties on all sugars above No. 13, Dutch standard. Mr. Sherman argued against the amendment and in favor of the House proposition, which would allow all sugars under No. 13, Dutch standard including good quality. The paragraph imposing duties on all sugars club some months ago to the effect, speaking of the Behring Sea difficulty, that the United States was such a susceptible nation that Great Britain could not negotiate at "the top of its voice." He regarded that remark as insulting toward the United States and with the early history of California. Next to thousands of American flags, which float in all parts of the city, one

Mr. Manderson offered an amendment for the admission free of duty of machin-ery for the manufacture of beet sugar and a refunding of all duties collected on such machinery since January 1890. Mr. Eustus moved to amend the amendment so as to extend it to machinery for beet and sorghum sugar Without coming to a vote Mr. Aldrich said he would try and have all the amendments voted on tonight so as to have the bill at the stage of third reading tomorrow morning. He also gave notice that he would (for the committee) offer an amendment that the bill shall take effect October 1, 1890.

The Senate then took recess. At the evening session Mr. Casey addressed the Senate in favor of the reciprocity proposition. Mr. Allison replied to a remark of Messes, Reagan and Gormon this afternoon accusing the Finance Committee and Republican Senators of discrimi-nation against the South, He denied there had been any such idea entertained, and asked wherein has such discrimination been shown. Certainly not in the matter of rice. Had the State of Texas been discriminated against at the present session? Had not $6,000,000 been appropriated for the purpose of transferring trade from the eastern seaboard to the most important Gulf port of Texas? Does not the Finance Committee propose to protect the wool of Texas, the second wool growing State of the Union? He, himself, had undertaken to protect the hides of Texas. But the Senator from Maryland had said there was not a line or page on the bill that protected industry in the Southern

If there had been any discrimina-tion it had been in favor of the South. As to cotton they had simply followed the other manufacturers of iron and steel and as to cotton bagging it was as much for the onions of California as for the cotton crop of the South."

As to the amendment offered by Mr. Manderson to admit beet sugar machinery free of duty since January '90, he did not see why that small boon should not be allowed. It would not harm any-body and would certainly be no discrimination against the producers of sugar from cane or sorghum. He would therefore vote for it against Mr. Eustis' amendment to extend the privilege to cane and sorghum sugar machinery.

Mr. Eustis' amendment was rejected without the yeas and nays, and Mr. Manderson's amendment agreed to; yeas 41, nays 11. The negative votes were given by Butler, Cameron, lisle, Cockrell, Coke, Gray, Hearst, Teller, Reagan and Wilson, of Iowa.

Mr. Gibson moved to reduce the sngar test from eighty degrees by the polariscope to seventy-six degrees and argued that the two cents a pound bounty on sugar produced in the United States would be neutralized by the European bounty of two cents a pound on exported sugar, so there would be really free trade

He was not, however, in favor of such a system of reciprocity as would in the slightest degree interfere with the policy f protection to American industry and Sugar Amendments to the Tariff.
